WILSON IS LUCKY SAYS SPEAKER CLARK

He Tells How Unwritten Law Keeps Aspiring Justices from Chief Executives's Chair

Washington, D. C., June 11.—In a statement given to the Republic tonight, Champ Clark declares that if Colonel Roosevelt finally decides to accept the Bull Moose nomination, President Wilson will win a second term in a walk. If the Colonel defined, Alton B. Parker, found that a Judge will run well. My good friend, Alton B. Parker, found that a value of the colone of the colone term in a walk. If the Colonel declines the nomination and actively supports Justice Hughes, Mr. Clark believes the country will see a "Kentucky hose race," with the advantage on the side of President Wilson.

The Speaker is convinced that the choice of a Justice of the Supreme Court, dragging the highest tribunal into politics, will be resented by thoughtful people throughout the country. He names a long list of Justices of the Supreme Court who longed for political preferment, but died without having received it. Mr. Clark says:

"Some philosophers claim there is nothing in luck. President Wilson's friend, Alton R. Parker, found that out, and Stephen A. Douglas, one of the greatest men of his time, always said that the handle of 'Judge' to his name was a handieap rather than a help in his struggles for political preferment.

"On the other hand, the President's re-nomination is according to precedent and is the principal reason why he will have no opposition at St. Louis.

If Col. Roosevelt accepts the nomination of the Bull Moosers, Woodrow Wilson will win in a walk. If Col. Roosevelt declines the nomination and supports Mr. Hughes it will be what my Kentucky friends call a Moosers might have agreed on some man of ability and character who would not have been confronted with the wise and wholesome precedent of more than a century, such a man as James R. ### Progressives Nominate Roosevelt with Hysteric Acclaim, But He Shows Signs of "Cold Feet"

The great Republican and Progressive Conventions have met, done their work and adjourned. The result is the nomination by the Republicans of Justice Charles Evans Hughes for President and Charles Warren Fairbanks of Indiana for Vice President, and the nomination by the Progressives of Theodore Roosevelt for President and John M. Parker of Louisiana for Vice President.

Letter Hughes evidently had his linear the room of the Justice Hughes evidently had his "ears to the ground", or more practically speaking, to the telephone receiver, expectant and ready to respond as soon as the tip was given him of his nomination, for he promptly sent in this brief resignation to the President: "I hereby resign the office of Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of the United States," to which President Wilson as promptly and almost as briefly responded: "I am in receipt of your letter of resignation and feel constrained to yield to your desire. I, therefore, accept your resignation as Justice of the Supreme Court at once." Justice Hughes then sent his letter of acceptance to the Republican Convention, which sets forth at some length his position and gives every evidence of having been prepared in advance. Evidently his sponsors had been advised beforehand that he would not only accept a nomination, but was a little anxious to secure it.

The conventions, with their bicker-Justice Hughes evidently had his

to secure it.

The conventions, with their bickerings and heart-burning, the aspiring ambitions of "favorite sons" to be ambitions of "favorite sons" to be honored, the eagerness of Colonel Roosevelt to bluff the Republican Convention into a nomination of him-self with his contemporaneous con-vention of Progressives lyste-ically shouting, "We want Teddy! We want Teddy! We want Teddy!" the ar-ranging of commission conferences in a hypogrifical professe of twing to a hypocritical pretense of trying to get together, with the Progressives unyielding in their demand for Teddy and the Republican bosses determined that they wouldn't have Teddy under any circumstances; all this has now passed into history with a good deal

On Saturday, the last day of the Convention, the Colonel doubtless seeing that all his biuster and theatscenng that all his bluster and theatricals would not bring about his nomination by the Reupblican Convention, sent a message to his Progressive managers, in an effort to save his face, a basis of compromise to the would place Senator Lodge at the head of the ticket. The Progressives were not willing to give up the Colsent a message to his Progressive managers, in an effort to save his face, a basis of compromise to the effect that he would withdraw his name if the Republican Convention would place Sentor Lodge at the head of the ticket. The Progressives were not willing to give up the Colonel, the "we want Teddy" sentiment would not give way, but the Colonel's message was laid before the Republican body. The third ballot was in progress, but the reading of the message had about as much effect upon the convention as the impinge of a leaden bullet against a granite wall; in fact it was received with a laugh and had the very opposite effect of what was intended. If Lodge had ever had any hope of being nomwhich was at once made unanimous.

At the close of the second ballot on Friday, Roosevelt had 81 votes, but at the close of the third ballot on Saturday his 81 had shrunk to 18½ loyal supporters who stood by him to the last. The nomination of Hughes, the rejection of Roosevelt's compromise candidate, Lodge, and the desertion of 62½ of his 81 votes, was certainly a humiliating rebuff of the Colonel's attempt to lead the g. o. p. again.

While this was transpiring in the Republican Convention the Progressive

While this was transpiring in the Republican Convention the Progressive Convention nominated their Teddy with enthusiastic acclaim, only to have their enthusiasm all knocked out of them by the Colonel's response to their action, so that they don't know "where they are at", or whether they have any head or not. When notified of his nomination by the Progressive Convention, his own pet aggregation. Convention, his own pet aggregation, he wired the following evasive reply: "To the Progressive Convention:

But if you prefer it, I suggest that my conditional fer it, I suggest that my conditional refusal to run be placed in the hands of the Progressive National Commitsiderable thinking concerning the labor situation here in the Lead Belt. A slight dissatisfaction arose among the foreign contingent working in the mines, regarding the wages they were receiving, which moved these husky servants of industry to put their heads together in a "council of war" and determine to adopt the "strike" method of enforcing their demands. This was accordingly done and every "Hunfie" walked out.

Here is where the situation takes on its surprising perplexity. For had this action been taken by a group of native Americans—men with the sovereign power of American citizenship—every one, both directly and indirectly concerned with the movement, would have been immediately and peramptorily "fired," and the leaders blacklisted. This is so usually the case that we should have been very greatly surprised at any other termination of the matter. But is this the way the company handled these foreign laborers? No, indeed. No sooner had the "strike" assumed real form, than the company officials, with a haste almost forecasting panie, by a hearty vote and with not the least malice, agreed to all the demands, and, doubtless, by most plously promising to exercise all diligence in sale-safeguarding the interests of these un-American, unpatriotic, neighbors, prevailed on them to resume their taxed employment.

A NEWSPAPER THAT "CAME BACK"

THERE'S no denying it—THE TIMES had fallen on evil days. The paper, venerable with age and dignified by the traditions of decades, had gone sliding down the financial hill almost to the bottom. And then came a change. New life, new blood, new ideas, new supporters, new equipment, new interest, new management—and today THE TIMES has "come back" to a position as vigorous and promising as any newspaper in Southeastern Missouri.

It should be YOUR newspaper. It is edited and published for you. It is a St. Francois County enterprise purely. It truly represents the interests of the town and county. Not aspiring to false ideals, it DOES hope to be and continue to be one of the best country newspapers in the State. To do that it needs your dollar for subscription, your good will, your interest and your friendly boost. Democratic in politics, legitimately partisan in its expressions, THE TIMES seeks to serve ALL the people as a medium of NEWS—the thing that makes a paper a NEWS-paper.
